Senator promises new effort to finance NSTL Technology Center

BY DENA BISNETTE

Funding for the Mississippi Technology Transfer Center may yet be obtained through the State Senate and work on construction at the National Space Technology Laboratories site is continuing.

According to Senator Gene Taylor, there are two possibilities for funding the project. One is a direct appropriation and the other is a bill for $100 million in state general obligation bonds for the technology center and other projects.

In a telephone interview from Jackson late Tuesday, Taylor said he felt the Senate had "acted very hastily and irresponsibly" in its earlier move that transferred the funding originally earmarked for the technology center to mental health programs.

He said he feels that the full impact of not providing the funding may not have been known at the time.

"If we don't fund it, we're looking at $1.9 million to settle with the contractor, refill the hole that's been dug on the site and pave the parking lot. About $350,000 has already been spent on engineering and architects," Taylor said.

He said members of the Senate were told that the loss would be about $700,000.

"That number was either intentionally or inadvertently distorted," the senator explained.

Taylor said he and Senator Martin Smith of Poplarville were still trying to decide Tuesday whether a direct appropriation or a bond bill would be the best way to provide funding for the technology center, which is still under construction in the interim.

"No stop work order has been issued at this point and every day nearer completion makes it more in our economic interest to finish the project."

The two senators had scheduled meetings with the heads of the Senate's finance and appropriation committees and expected to offer a motion for reconsideration Wednesday on a direct appropriation if that proved the most feasible way to fund the center.

Taylor said action could be delayed if he and Smith choose a bond bill, which in its rough draft form includes funds for the Institute of Technological Development near Jackson, dredging the ship channel at the Port of Gulfport to 36 feet deep and other projects in addition to the center.

"Something is going to happen to finish the building whether it's a direct appropriation or a bond bill, but a bond bill would give us more time," the senator added.

He estimated the time the Senate has left to provide funding for the center at three to five weeks.

"It's just regrettable that we have gotten in a position where some senators haven't honored our obligation."

Among the reasons Taylor feels that completion of the center is important are its potential $9 million payroll and a total new employment of 250 to 275 people with an average salary of $35,000 to $40,000 per year.

He termed the center "precisely what we need in this state."

"We need to keep our young college graduates in the state and particularly on the Gulf Coast, and the Senate confirms Gex appointment

Gex III and a federal judgeship.

The US Senate has confirmed the appointment of Gex as a federal judge in Mississippi's Southern District Federal Court.

Gex received unofficial word of the approval in a telephone call Tuesday night and was scheduled to receive official approval on Wednesday.

The appointment was apparently the last thing on which the Senate acted Tuesday, said Kathy Ladner, Gex's secretary.

Gex was not available for comment because he was in Biloxi to observe a case being tried by another federal judge from Bay St. Louis, Judge Dan Russell.

Gex was recommended for the post in April by Senator Thad Cochran, but also received backing from Senator John Stennis.

Ladner said that after Gex receives a signed commission from the president, he will be sworn in by another federal judge, possibly Russell, with a formal investiture ceremony to be scheduled later.

As a federal judge, Gex will be based in the Federal Courthouse at Biloxi but will hear cases in other parts of the state as well. He has said that he plans to continue to reside in Diamondhead.

County must provide matching to get emergency beach funds

BY DENA BISNETTE

Hancock County may be able to obtain emergency funding for beach repair through the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers if matching funds are available.

According to Robert Martin, study manager for the Corps' Mobile, Ala., District, the county's eligibility for $250,000 in funding depends on the degree of emergency found to exist with regard to shoreline erosion and danger to public property.

In addition, the amount would have to be sufficient for development of some type of repair project, Martin added.

The Mobile district is planning to send representatives to Hancock County within the next few weeks to assess the condition of the beachfront, since the Corps has not looked at the situation since before the 1985 hurricane season.

To get the funding, the county would have to provide a minimum of 25 percent of the construction cost.

Some of the county's share would be in-kind funding through the providing of any necessary easements, rights-of-way and relocations. On top of those costs, five percent of the total project cost would still have to be provided by local money.

In addition, the $250,000 limit would keep the project from covering an extensive amount of beachfront, Martin added.

"We would probably not be dealing with an old problem. If the study indicates that a project could be developed, we would be dealing with only those areas where the most damage appears to have been done," he explained.

"We are still looking at a project that would cover the whole shoreline," said Martin, referring to a long-term solution for shore protection problems.

That study and its funding, unlike the emergency funding, would have to be approved by Congress.

The first part of the two-part study has been approved for funding with money set aside for water management research that was never done, Martin said.

Matching funds of $77,000 for the first year of the study and $65,000 for the second year will be required of the county if the long-term project is carried out, according to James Head, director of Gulf Regional Planning Commission.

Martin said the Corps plans to work with the county through the commission on both the emergency funding and the long-term project, which involves a two-year study that is expected to eventually lead to a full-scale redesign of the beachfront.

Head said the long-term study could begin as early as March if the matching funds are approved.

He added that he had taken an informal poll of members of the board

School board reviews plan for K classes

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Bay St. Louis school officials, interested parents and concerned citizens reviewed the district's application for state funding for the kindergarten program Monday.

Superintendent J. D. McCullough told the group of more than 50 people gathered that following changes and approval by the board the application would be sent to state department of education in advance of the Friday deadline.

McCullough reviewed general information on the application before requesting Early Childhood Coordinator James D. Baldree to describe the specifics of the application.

McCullough did however report that the kindergarten program would be a full-day program with six hours per day of student participation.

In his presentation, Baldree stressed that the application included only the features that the district would be able to provide by September but others could be added as available.

The application included a general outline of plans and steps being implemented to prepare for the kindergarten program including a plan of operation, registration plan and preparing and distributing information to parents about the program.

Waste disposal permit renewal open for public comment

The state Bureau of Pollution Control has opened a period of public comment on a request by Du Pont Delisle Plant to renew its permit for deep well injection waste disposal.

Since 1979, when production started, the company has been using 10,000-foot-deep wells to get rid of the chloride byproducts of its titanium dioxide production.

The last of the three wells was built after the backup had to be used temporarily because of a mechanical failure which forced the shutdown of the main well.

Dave Settle, Du Pont Delisle plant manager, said the waste, an acidic iron compound, is non-hazardous. He said the renewal of the permit is "just a routine thing." The present permit on the wells, issued under the National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System, expires in March.

The period of public comment ends April 3.

The company uses three wells, but the state Department of Natural Resources, parent agency of the Bureau of Pollution Control, says only one well is needed for the 500,000 gallons of wastewater the plant generates daily.

"No significant changes are proposed in the reissuance," the department notice says.

Titanium dioxide is used in the manufacture of paint, food and other products.

Cancer Society announces public education program

"Everything causes cancer!" "I love having a suntan. There's no way something as healthy as the sun can give you cancer!" "I've been a smoker for 15 years. It's too late for me to do anything to avoid lung cancer."

These statements about cancer have two things in common: first, they reflect an attitude of helplessness regarding cancer prevention, and second, they all are incorrect.

Unfortunately, though, this sense of inevitability is common, despite the many advances in the fight against cancer.

To dispel this mistaken sense of hopelessness, the American Cancer Society has announced a new public education program, "Taking Control," which offers ten simple steps people can take now to reduce their risk of getting cancer, and possibly prevent the disease.

"Taking Control" is one of our most significant programs to date because it represents the Society's new emphasis on cancer prevention said Dr. Lodovico Balducci, Mississippi Division president.

"Most scientists now believe that our daily habits—what we eat and drink, whether we smoke and how often we expose ourselves to the sun—determines to a great extent our risk of getting many cancers," he said.

"All of these factors can be controlled easily. We have the power to lessen our chances of getting this disease."

"Taking Control" is the first ACS program to integrate all aspects of cancer prevention—diet, exercise, and general health habits—into a program that can be adapted practically to one's lifestyle.

It offers ten steps—five habits to adopt and five to curtail—that have been proven through epidemiological studies and laboratory experiments to play a role in curtailing the development of certain cancers.

The five "protective factors" are practices that should be adopted; the "risk factors" are habits that should be curtailed or abandoned. "We know that a third of all cancer is linked to cigarette smoking. And other cancers, particularly breast, prostate, and colon, are related to diet," said Balducci.

"By cutting out smoking and eating more of the foods that may inhibit cancer, you can do a lot to reduce your risk."

PROTECTIVE FACTORS:

1. Increase consumption of fresh vegetables, especially those of the cabbage family, to inhibit cancer development and growth. In addition, vegetables will increase the intake of certain vitamins as well as provide increased dietary fiber.

2. Add more dietary fiber. High-fiber diets seem to reduce the risk of developing certain cancers, such as cancer of the breast, prostate and colon.

3. Increase intake of vitamin A. Cancers of the esophagus, larynx and lung may be avoided by increasing the intake of natural sources of this vitamin.

4. Add more foods rich in vitamin C. Citrus fruits, and vegetables rich in vitamin C may protect against cancer of the stomach and esophagus.

5. Practice weight control. Obesity is linked to cancers of the uterus, gallbladder, breast and colon.

6. Reduce the amount of dietary fat. A high-fat diet increases risk of developing breast, colon and prostate cancers.

7. Cut down on salt-cured, smoked, and nitrite-cured foods. Moderation in the consumption of these foods, is recommended, since they have been linked to cancer of the esophagus and stomach.

8. Stop cigarette smoking.

9. Go easy on alcohol. Drinking large amounts of alcohol increases the risk of liver cancer. And, heavy drinkers who smoke are at much greater risk for cancers of the mouth, throat, larynx and esophagus than nonsmokers.

10. Avoid overexposure to the sun. Reduce the risk of getting skin cancer by wearing protective clothing or by using a sunscreen.

The program will be offered by local units of the American Cancer Society in Mississippi, with special emphasis on workplace seminars, houses of worship, and supermarkets. In addition to the printed material, videotape and slide presentations have been developed. A film using science fiction themes and special effects also have been produced.

"The material that has been put together for this program has one purpose," — to motivate people to adopt these practices," said Dr. Balducci.

"We've been very successful in increasing the cure rate for patients who already have cancer," Dr. Balducci said. "Now we have the knowledge that will enable us to attack cancer before it starts. This is some of the best news about cancer we can offer the public. There's no magic potion to ward off cancer, but we are far from helpless."

For more information about this exciting new program, contact the American Cancer Society, Mississippi Division, 345 North Mart Plaza, Jackson, Miss., or call (601) 362-8874.

Point of Law

(Prepared by the Mississippi State Bar. Some rights may vary from locality to locality. Always consult an attorney when in doubt about your legal rights.)

Q. We needed to have some work done on a car. To pay for it, we traded the mechanic two old cars that were not running. The mechanic never came to get the two old cars and now three years have gone by and we have the chance to sell them. Can we?

A. Yes, your agreement to give the mechanic two old cars in exchange for performing repairs to another vehicle constituted an oral contract.

In the State of Mississippi a suit to enforce an unwritten contract, expressed or implied, must be commenced within three years after the cause of action accrues.

Because the mechanic has allowed three years to pass since your offer to give him the cars in exchange for his services, he has no legal right to the vehicles.

Q: My mother is 92 years old and has owned her 180 acre farm for many years. It is fully paid for and my dad died years ago. Mother wants to sell the farm and has found a buyer. She only went to school through the third grade and cannot write her name. I understand she can give the buyer a deed and sign it with an "X". Is this true, and what does the law require in this regard?

A: Assuming that title to the farm is held solely by your mother and that her mental condition is sound, she can sell the property and sign the deed to the buyer with her mark. The deed should be signed in the presence of two witnesses to her mark and should carry the acknowledgement of a Notary Public or other acknowledging authority that the deed has, in fact, been signed, sealed and delivered by your mother.

Since the Grammy Awards were held Tuesday night and the Academy Awards are coming soon, maybe I can get in a few 'Thank You's' to the so many people who made the Hancock County Board of Supervisors Clean Our Beach Day such a success.

Things were pretty gloomy for me early Saturday morning when I was the first person to arrive at the staging area. The reason was because rain was still coming down.

Co-chairman John Scafide arrived a few minutes later, and other committee chairmen began to arrive and we decided to go ahead without really not too much hope.

Waveland Mayor John Longo was among the first to register, and worked along the beach at Coleman Avenue.

Supervisor Sam Perniciaro delivered 300 sand sacks, and it wasn't long before he and Supervisor Bert Courge were getting another batch.

On a drive down the beach between 9:30 and 10 a.m. Scafide and I noted workers of all ages the entire 6.1 miles of beach.

Bay Mayor Vic Franckiewicz was with a Bay group, a soccer team was busy at Buccaneer State Park, a CYO group in between, a St. Clare School group near their church, and every section of the beach was being searched for dangerous objects and litter.

In addition to Longo, Perniciaro, Courge, and other elected officials, I noted State Representative Walter James Phillips, Supervisor President Dolph Kellar, Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner, Bay Councilmen Wilmer Seymour and John Wilkerson.

There may have been others, and I may have missed someone, because it was impossible to note everyone.

This Clean Our Beach Day is a big step forward, and it shows the community's concern about litter. The help of everyone can lead to a litter-free community.

Again, thanks to everyone for helping us have a most successful day.

A benefit Seafood Festival is scheduled for the BaySide Volunteer Fire Department on Saturday. A parade will form on the Service Lane of US-90 near the Bay St. Louis bridge at 10 a.m., according to Joyce Garcia.

The event will be held on Highway 90 near Blossman Gas Company and is being sponsored by the Waveland Seafood and Deli.

Garcia reports there will be all types of seafoods, hotdogs, and refreshments.

Among the highlights will be a raw oyster eating contest, and a boiled crayfish contest.

A king and queen will also serve during the festival.

The Hancock County Woman's Club presented funds to purchase two bullet-proof vests to the Hancock County sheriff's department.

This is a very good community effort by the Woman's Club, and we know our Sheriff Ronnie Peterson and his department are very grateful to the Hancock County Woman's Club.

It has taken many months, but Senate approval has been given to Walter Gex III, on his appointment as a United States Federal Judge.

All that is lacking now is a Presidential Commission.

Just think, Hancock County will have two Federal Judges on the bench.

Judge Dan M. Russell Jr., now enjoying senior status, was a former Bay St. Louis resident.

Judge Russell's father before him was also a United States Federal Judge.

The entire community is elated over Gex's achievement and anxiously awaits final approval from President Reagan.

The residents of Waveland are reminded to vote Saturday afternoon in the School Board election.

The election will be held at the Waveland Elementary School from 2 to 5 p.m.

There are three candidates seeking the school board post for qualified electors living outside the corporate limits of Bay St. Louis in the Municipal Separate School District.

So, do not forget to vote.

SACKS OF TRASH—Some 600 burlap sacks were used in the collection of trash in the Clean Our Beach campaign held last Saturday. Alton Hargett, left, and Woody Morrisette, Waveland employees, loaded several of the sacks of debris on Monday collected near Coleman Avenue, Waveland, Hancock County, and Bay St. Louis officials joined some 400 volunteers for the Clean Our Beach Day. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

FILES OF TRASH—More than 400 citizens offered a hand in the collection of glass, cans, metal and all types of debris below the water line on the beach from Washington Street to Clermont Harbor last Saturday. Early Monday, Robert Johnston and Rusty Galloway of District Four collected a pile of trash near Washington Street. Crewmen from District One and Four, in addition to Waveland, collected 14 dump truck loads of various debris on Monday in conjunction with the Clean Our Beach Day campaign. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

VARIOUS DEBRIS—All types of debris was removed from the county's sand beach on Saturday during the Hancock County Board of Supervisors Clean Our Beach Day last Saturday. On Monday, Robert Shippley, left, and Lydell Moran of District One loaded some type of old furniture on a front end loader in Clermont Harbor to be loaded on a dump truck for transportation to the county dump. Some 14 dump trucks of debris were collected by more than 400 volunteers during the Clean Our Beach Day. Several large items such as trees were also being removed by the supervisors' crews. Parents group urges voter turnout at school board election Saturday

Feb. 24, 1986
Sea Coast Echo

Letter to the Editor:

On behalf of the Bay-Waveland Parents for Quality Education we encourage all eligible registered voters to go to the polls at Waveland Elementary School on Saturday, March 1, between the hours of 2 and 5 p.m. to choose one of the two elected school board members from Waveland.

You are eligible to vote if you live in the Bay-Waveland Municipal School District, but outside the city limits of Bay St. Louis (if in doubt, call the superintendent's office at 467-6821).

There are three candidates running, Mr. Clarence Harris, Mr. John Mason, and Mrs. Linda Penrose.

This election is to fill one of five seats on the Bay-Waveland Schoolboard, and, since all decisions affecting our schools legally rest with the board, it is most important that all people interested in improving our schools express their choice at the polls where it really counts.

Please, please, please make a little space in your busy schedule on Saturday. The future of our children is at stake! Vote for the candidate of your choice.

Dear Editor:

My friend, the Bay-Waveland Beach Bum, was inspired to write the following poem while participating in today's "Clean Our Beach Day."

CLEAN OUR BEACH DAY

There never was a prettier sight
Than hundreds of people in a peaceful fight...

The nicest fight you've ever seen...
All fighting to keep our beaches clean...

Hundreds of people in drizzling rain...

Resolved to have their beach again.
Like locusts, they made a sweeping pass

And freed the beach of nails and glass.
A tremendous success... what more can we say.

Even the tide went out today.
This was the first of an annual affair,

And you can be proud that you were there!

Sincerely,

School bus drivers outline complaint procedures, training requirement

February 26, 1986
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor:

In response to your February 20 "Letters To The Editor," Ann Shlyou wrote an article on "Complaints against School Bus Drivers Go Unheeded."

We, the bus drivers at Hancock North Central School, would like to respond to her article.

When a complaint is filed or phoned in against a bus driver for any reason, a driver is called in the school office for an interview with her or his supervisor and if needed the superintendent of education.

If witnesses are needed we or the school have the right to call upon the students on the bus so all points of view are weighed and given a response.

No one driver would drive a school bus loaded with children carelessly.

These are little lives at stake as well as our own and no one in his right mind wants anything to happen.

Many of us have had years of experience driving a car or school bus with no accidents. Can the average person say that he is as careful as we are?

We are required by law to go to bus drivers school on our own time every year from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., a whole day of films, schooling and driving to be recertified before we can drive a school bus.

This costs us our time, baby sitters and money to drive to school and attend drivers classes to make sure we are capable of driving a school bus.

Now, if only parents could help us. Please make our jobs easier by instructing your children how to behave and respect their driver. They are your children whose lives we have under our care.

Please help us make it a safer bus to ride.

We, the 22 bus drivers of Hancock North Central, have voted unanimously Tuesday to endorse this letter.

Thank you and sincerely,

The Bus Drivers at

WHEN TO SEE THE DOCTOR

(Presented as a public service by the Mississippi State Medical Association and this newspaper.)

All of us are now and then faced with a quick decision: should we, or shouldn't we see the doctor?

The Mississippi State Medical Association lists several points for consideration as a general guide to help you decide whether medical aid should be sought at once:

— When your complaint or symptoms are too severe to be endured, such as abdominal pain common to a gallbladder attack or appendicitis or kidney colic, or sudden chest pains. Immediate relief of pain is the purpose of getting the patient to the doctor without delay.

— When an apparently minor symptom persists for more than a few days or a week, and does not appear to be due to some easily identified cause. A nose bleed from a sharp blow is one thing; a nose that bleeds constantly or frequently for no apparent reason is quite a different matter.

— When the symptom returns repeatedly for no readily apparent cause. Digestive disturbances due to overindulgence are one thing; constant digestive distress despite great care and moderation in eating is another.

— When in doubt, it is safer to call the doctor than to take a chance.

Many accidents around the home or yard cause bruises and scratches and minor sprains that can be successfully treated at home. But some accidents require fast medical attention.

If the accident victim is unconscious, get help fast. Also, when bleeding is severe or cannot be controlled; when the victim is groggy or confused; when there are signs of shock, such as pale, cold skin, sweating and weak pulse.

Breathlessness or intensive thirst after the accident requires medical attention. If there is a possible broken bone, seek help. Get help, also, for severe pain, signs of poisoning, serious burns, persistent vomiting, blurred vision.

Budget cuts bring horror stories from state agency heads

By Rosa Lee H. Jones

After looming in the background for weeks, the legislature's budget-cutting axe began to fall on state agencies this week.

The Senate cut the budgets of all but two state agencies by at least 11.5 percent. Impassioned agency heads told horror stories to Gov. Bill Allain about what the cuts would do to the people in their departments and the services their agencies provide.

Around 3,400 elderly people could be pushed out of nursing home doors, 530 mentally ill patients might have to leave hospitals and 1,700 state employees might wind up on the unemployment line as a result of the funding cuts, officials said.

Only the State Mental Health Department and the Mississippi National Guard avoided the full 11.5 percent cuts. The Senate put $2.8 million back into the mental health budget, taking it from a high technology development project in Bay St. Louis.

The cuts would take place in July. Action in the House was largely confined to the Appropriations Committee, where representatives tried to come up with their own versions of budget cuts to deal with the fiscal crisis precipitated by a shortfall in state revenues.

In November, the state reduced its revenue estimates by $44.2 million. Two months later, that figure was cut another $22.5 million.

For fiscal year 1987, the revenue estimates have been cut a total of $109.4 million. Allain has said he will veto any tax increase.

The week was cut short by adjournment on Thursday morning of both houses due to the death of former Senator Jim Eastland. This break in action comes at the halfway point in the session.

When they reconvened on Monday morning, both houses faced their first deadline for voting on appropriations and revenue bills with more than 100 waiting on the calendar for action during the week.

VOTING RECORDS HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES (through Feb. 21)

Practically no floor action was seen last week. Both houses of the legislature went home early due to the death of Senator Eastland. This week will be extremely busy with the deadline for original appropriations floor action being Thursday, Feb. 27.

On Monday, Feb. 17, the House passed a motion to "lay on the table, subject to call" this bill. That means that it can be called up at a later date. This bill failed in the House last week. The purpose of the bill is to lower the requirement for passage of a local school bond issue from a 60 percent vote to 55 percent. The motion to "lay on the table, subject to call" passed. (Voting for this motion supports keeping this bill on the calendar, voting against supports killing the bill.) Yea - 66, Nay - 53, Absent - 2, Present but not voting - 1, Phillips - Yea.

SB2057

This vote (2/19/86) was on a motion to suspend the rules and consider the Senate bill that would lower the size of the legislature. It required 77 yea votes for passage. It failed, so the bill was not considered at this time, but this bill will remain on the calendar and can be brought back up for consideration. Yea - 69, Nay - 46, Absent - 5, Present but not voting - 2, Phillips - Yea.

SB2529

This bill makes provisions for withholding wages for child support payments. Yea - 110, Nay - 10, Absent - 2, Phillips - Yea.

SB2519

This bill enlarges the role of the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol in general law enforcement. Yea - 111, Nay - 5, Absent - 6, Phillips - Yea.

VOTING RECORDS FOR THE SENATE (through Feb. 21)

More than 70 appropriations bills were passed by the Senate this week with almost all of them passing with no dissenting votes. The two that were not unanimous follow.

SB2851

This appropriations bill funds the Ethics Commission. Yea - 36, Nay -

HOUSEKEEPING A Weekly Summary

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following report is submitted by the Mississippi House of Representatives Information Office courtesy of Rep. Walter J. Phillips of Hancock County.

JACKSON— The 1986 legislative session has passed the halfway point with budget problems still of paramount concern as members of the House of Representatives wrestle with a towering stack of appropriation bills to fund state agencies and institutions.

Legislators faced another key deadline this week heading into the eighth week of the session. Thursday, Feb. 27, was the last day for original floor action in the House and Senate on their own appropriation bills and revenue measures.

Numerous appropriation bills were approved during the past week by the House in a push to meet the fast-approaching deadline. Many other funding bills awaited consideration this week.

The task of allocating funds for state agencies, departments and institutions is never easy, but the job has been especially difficult this session because of the state's severe budget problems. The Legislative Budget Committee has been forced to cut back its general fund revenue estimates twice since the session began, including an $80.9 million reduction earlier this month. This was on top of the $28.5 million cut approved in January.

The session is scheduled to last 90 days. Last Thursday, Feb. 20, was the 45th day, the halfway mark unless an extension of the session becomes necessary.

Among the first appropriations winning House approval last week were several bills to fund some boards and commissions that operate on special funds such as fees or assessments levied for a specific purpose. While cuts were made in a number of these special fund bills, the House decided to consider each measure on its own merits rather than simply making an across-the-board reduction and chopping all of them alike.

Much of the work of the past week was done in committees as the House, in addition to getting the funding bills ready for this week's deadline, began studying a variety of general bills passed earlier by the Senate.

Among the Senate-passed measures recommended by House committees were bills to update state election laws, extend the life of the State Ethics Commission, and revise a law involving standards of conduct for public officials.

The House voted to grant statutory authority to Highway Patrol officers to come to the aid of other law enforcement authorities under certain conditions.

Three bills aimed at helping improve government at the county level also were approved without opposition, including a measure to increase the interval at which county roads and bridges must be inspected. Another revises a law on handling county funds so the money can start drawing interest at an earlier date.

A House-passed bill was released to the Senate providing for the distribution of several million dollars in revenues from the Grand Gulf nuclear plant in Claiborne County.

Under the proposal, Claiborne County would get 15 percent of the money and 10 percent of the remaining 85 percent would go to the state. The rest would be distributed among cities and counties served by Mississippi Power & Light Company, which operates the plant.

An amendment was adopted specifying that annual payments must total at least $24 million, or $8 million less than the payments would have been under a prior amendment and $8 million more than the bill originally provided.

Recent visitors to the House included Congressmen G. V. (Sonny) Montgomery, who met with a group of legislators to discuss financial problems facing Mississippi farmers.

The House also extended a warm welcome to Leflore County cotton producer Wayne Bush and his wife, Celeste. Bush was the recipient of the national Cotton Achievement Award by Cotton Grower Magazine.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—Blacks have evidently not abandoned their hopes of sending a black Congressman to Washington from the Second District, the black-majority, largely Delta area which incongruously has the nation's most fertile land while at the same time the nation's poorest people.

Another incongruity, from the perspective of the Democratic Party, is that the Second has a pro-Reagan Republican as its representative.

The district was created by a federal court order in 1982 to give blacks a good shot at winning a Mississippi Congressional seat. Instead, the district elected a white Republican convert, former Circuit Judge Webb Franklin of Greenwood, by a slim margin over black Democrat Robert Clark.

Again in 1984 it was a Franklin-Clark rematch, and once again, it was close, but no cigar for Clark, a respected state legislator from Ebenezer. Both elections went strictly along racial lines.

After those two setbacks, a theory gained headway that possibly the only chance for a Democrat to win was for a progressive white with good black support to carry the party banner. Some black political leaders in the district evidently bought that idea a year or so ago, and the white progressive to emerge was Pete Johnson, the grandson of former Gov. Paul B. Johnson Sr.

Now the black-supported white progressive strategy seems to be considerably less viable because of the emergence of former Asst. Atty. Gen. Mike Espy as a much more serious black contender than was originally thought.

Espy had come on initially very low-key and with little apparent solicitation from the black political community. Meanwhile Johnson was actively organizing both black and white support, putting together financial backing and making regular trips to Washington to establish good ties with the National Democratic Party.

In the meantime, a second white progressive, State Sen. Ken Harper of Vicksburg, who had tentatively gotten into the Second District Congressional picture as the labor-backed candidate, announced he was not going to run.

The departure of Harper from the race conceivably was a boost to Johnson's chances since it eliminated his white competitor, and possibly would give him the labor backing Harper had.

That's not how the scenario in the Second is developing, however.

The 32-year-old Espy has now proved he has been getting his ducks neatly in the row for sometime, and is much better organized for a major push than most observers anticipated.

The young attorney, who had resigned his post as head of the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division in November, went to Washington and apparently convinced ed the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee he offers the Democrats the only hope of unseating Franklin, one of three Republican incumbents in the House targeted by the party.

Sources say that the DCC, which provides a substantial share of financial help and political expertise, has cooled on Johnson to the point it is trying to discourage his candidacy.

Some of the black leaders in the Second, among them City Councilman David Jordan of Greenwood and State Rep. Clark, who had been listed earlier by Johnson as supporting him, have backed off since then. Jordan has become an open supporter of Espy and Clark has made clear he will not endorse anyone in the primary.

Espy has enlisted Hinds County Supervisor Bennie Thompson, the Democratic National Committeeman, along with the Rev. David Matthews as co-chairman of his campaign committee. Also, he has received the endorsement of all 10 black county supervisors in the District, plus the other 41 black supervisors around the state.

One secret weapon Espy has going for him is the force of some 200 insurance agents who work for the nine funeral homes owned by Espy's family, eight of which are located around the Second District. The chain of funeral homes stems from a family business based in Yazoo City, where Espy reopened his law practice after six years in state government.

He served as assistant Secretary of State under Ed Pittman and then went with Pittman to the Attorney General's Office. Evidently Espy has set out to disabuse the notion that his candidacy is in any way connected with Pittman, who has been very much in the middle of a controversy with Gov. Bill Allain and others in state government.

Espy already had raised $28,000 in campaign money by mid-February and this week will be the beneficiary of a fund-raiser given in Washington at the law firm of former Democratic National Chairman Bob Strauss, with Vernon Jordan, and a co-host.

Close observers of the last two Robert Clark campaigns say that poor organization of the campaign and Clark's lack of attention to detail helped bring about his downfall.

In contrast, Espy, an articulate speaker, who made an excellent reputation by recovering $2.4 million for consumers in an 18-month period as head of the consumer protection office, stands to be much better organized.

Espy has the advantage of having made speaking appearances before numbers of all-white civic clubs in the Second District.

Still, the key to success in the district is evidently getting the black vote to turn out, and that will be Espy's priority.

Attempted burglary halted, 3 juveniles taken in custody for making drivers licenses

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

A white male who was "just passing through" Bay St. Louis was arrested early Wednesday morning when officers answered a burglary alarm at Western Auto.

Robert D. Foster, 32, of New Orleans was arrested and charged with attempted burglary, said Bay St. Louis Police Detective David Murtagh.

Murtagh said Foster was a transient who stated he was on his way from New Orleans to Florida.

The suspect was discovered on the premises trying to enter the store by Bay St. Louis Police Officers Winfred Scarborough and Wilbert Dorsey.

Foster allegedly was trying to make an opening with an ax in the wall of Western Auto.

Three juveniles were also arrested Wednesday for reproducing and distributing Mississippi drivers licenses, said Bay Police Chief Ray Murphy.

They were taken into custody and released in the custody of the Hancock County Youth Court.

Murphy said about 30 drivers licenses have been confiscated from juveniles in the past couple of months.

Murphy warned that recently adopted state statutes regarding fraudulent drivers licenses will be strictly enforced and anyone found producing or in possession these will be charged.

The Mississippi Code states that it shall be unlawful for any person to display or possess any fictitious, fraudulently altered or fraudulently obtained drivers license; to display or represent any drivers license not issued to the individual in possession; and to photograph, photostat or duplicate or in any way reproduce or alter any drivers license or facsimile thereof in such a manner that it would be mistaken for a valid drivers license.

It is also unlawful for a person to display or possess any photograph, photostat or duplicate reproduction or facsimile of a drivers license unless authorized by law; to take a drivers license examination for another or to use any other name, other than his own on the drivers license application and attempt to take drivers license examination for another, Murphy added.

Murphy said that the code also stated that any person convicted of a violation of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $500 or by imprisonment for not more than 30 days or by both fine and imprisonment.

County Forester

Worst Fire Danger May Be Just Ahead

With one of the driest Januaries in history, State Forester Robert S. "Sid" Moss reports that the State of Mississippi has been very fortunate to have thus far had a relatively low incidence of wildfire.

Moss said during the first 28 days of January MFC field reports show 1,493 wildfires having to be suppressed by Forestry Commission crews. The blazes have burned an estimated 17,300 acres.

The state forester cautions that Mississippi routinely most serious fire occurrence months, February and March, are still ahead.

"If we continue this droughty trend through March I'd rather not even think about the losses we'll likely be facing unless we continue to get good cooperation from landowners and highway users during periods of very low humidity and high, gusty winds that often accompany passage of these winter cold fronts," Moss said.

"We are hoping that people will continue to use good sense in burning debris, fields, fencerows, etc. and in tossing matches and other smoking materials out of vehicle windows during times when there has been little or no rainfall for a day or so. It doesn't take dead grass, pine needles and leaves very long to return to tinder-dry condition when there's wind and low humidity," Moss warned.

Since July 1, 1985 the State fire record has continued at a pace well below the five-year average. Only 2,557 wildfires have had to be suppressed, burning 25,872 acres; compared to the five-year average of 3,289 fires and 32,821 scorched acres.

At least one wildfire-related fatality has been recorded this year; an elderly lady in East Mississippi who fell into a grass fire. An estimated $2.5 million dollars in overall damage has been inflicted in this year's fires.

TREE SEEDLING SALES

MOVE TOWARD CLIMAX

For 1985-86 Tree Planting Season

At this point it's not too late to order several species of tree seedlings for planting between now and spring, but you'd better hurry, according to a State Forestry spokesman.

Forestry Commission Information-Education Director Bill Colvin notes that the Commission now has only about 15 percent of the 1986 planting season supply of seedlings still available for purchase.

"Most of what's left is Loblolly Pine, (about 8 million). There is no more Slash or Longleaf Pine to be sold, according to a recent check of nursery inventories against recorded orders," Colvin said.

"We also have about 30,000 each of Baldcypress and Green Ash and four or five thousand Yellow Poplar seedlings, in the way of hardwoods," he said.

Colvin said "last minute" orders are expected to begin surging in now that the President has signed the new farm bill and provisions of it related to reforestation are becoming known.

He said he suspected that many landowners who felt like their land might qualify for the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) may have been delaying their ordering of seedlings until they found out if they would be able to take advantage of the CRP during this winter's planting season.

Loblolly sells for $21 per thousand delivered to the county. Hardwoods and Baldcypress (technically a softwood) may be bought for $83 per thousand delivered to the county. Kindergarten..... CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1A

Baldree stated program philosophy and goals.

"The Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District adheres to the philosophy that kindergarten children are unique, curious individuals who must have learning experiences which relate to their own stage of development.

"These experiences should provide opportunities for a child to acquire skills and concepts involving socialization, problem-solving, decision making, questioning, evaluation and discovering," Baldree said.

Reflecting the program philosophy, the learning environment will include classrooms specifically constructed and equipped for kindergarten classes, the application states.

Rooms will be partially carpeted and set up with designated area for learning centers and individual and group activity area.

Examples of the learning centers to be located in each classroom are art, science, dramatic play, music, library, woodworking, cooking, language arts and math.

According to the application, the learning centers will provide each child with the opportunity to make choices, have "hands-on" experiences, learn to cooperate and communicate with others, and to learn through discovery.

"The outdoor environment will consist of a large playground equipped with appropriate facilities for social play, physical play, cognitive play and a gardening area," Baldree read.

Included among the nine program goals are providing help for the students to develop a positive attitude, achieve intellectual growth, increase competence and skills in communication and increase competence in dealing with emotional feelings and social situations.

The floor plan for the kindergarten classrooms was also presented at the meeting for the board's approval.

Architect Jules Legard presented the plans which although on a very tight budget would meet all state minimum standards.

Legard said the construction type of the building had not been settled but that the building would feature a sloped roof.

Commission delays zoning decision for property near new hospital again

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Delaying the decision on a zoning change request again, the Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission voted to have a zoning study done on the area around the new hospital site.

The request, filed in August by Dr. James C. Crittendon, was for rezoning of a piece of property from residential to commercial, so he could construct an office.

With a four to three vote, the commission agreed to contact Gulf Regional Planning Commission to do a study on the need for a special use medical district zoning in an area that is now predominantly residential and adjacent to the site for the new county hospital.

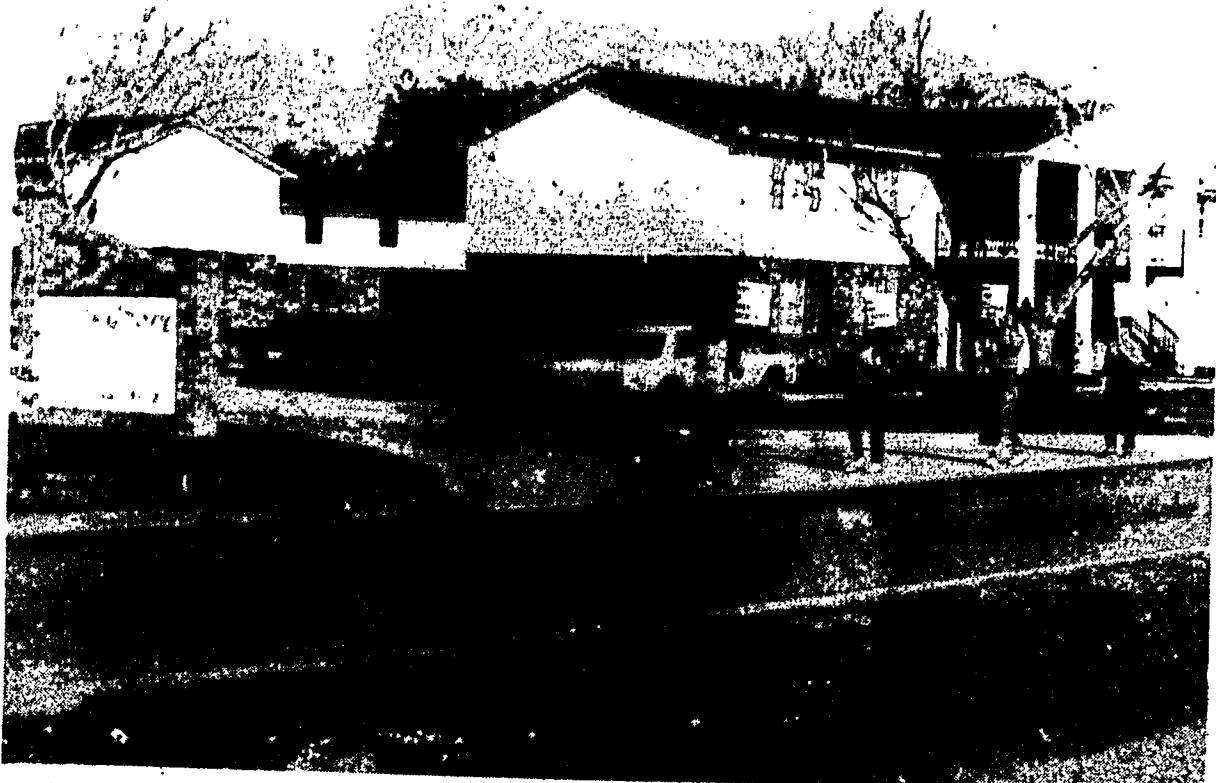

Commission Chairman Joseph Marochino voted against the motion stating he believed Crittendon's request should be denied on the basis that it would be spot zoning.

Commissioners Calvin Smith and Alice Holmes also opposed the motion.

Later in the meeting the commissioners unanimously approved a zoning request by Roland Taillac for a parcel of land in the area bordered by Ninth Street, US-90, Turner Street and Suebe Street from residential to commercial.

Taillac told the commission he had bought the land in 1949 as commercial and that it had been changed without his knowledge.

Also during the meeting, Ronald Artigues presented the commission a preliminary plan for The Woods subdivision located off Beyer Drive.

Driver charged with felony DUI

BY DENA BISNETTE

A Waveland teenager remains hospitalized in Gulfport while the driver of the car that injured him faces charges of felony DUI.

Samuel Seymour was reported in good condition at Memorial Hospital late Wednesday and had been transferred out of the hospital's intensive care unit, a hospital spokesman said.

Seymour had been placed in intensive care after being transferred from Hancock General Hospital and had undergone surgery for his injuries.

The accident occurred about 10:30 a.m. Friday night in front of the Ulman Avenue Pier, according to a report from the Bay St. Louis Police Department.

Police Chief Ray Murphy said the driver of the vehicle that hit Seymour, who witnesses said was standing in the parking bay in front of the pier, was John Oliver Waddell of Pass Christian.

Waddell was allegedly driving under the influence of alcohol when the accident occurred and the charges against him, felony DUI, carry a penalty of up to five years if convicted.

Waddell is free on $7,500 bond. Seymour was thrown into a parked vehicle when Waddell's car hit him.

"I saw him come up on my car and sort of roll over it and land on the ground," said Bay High student Stace McRaney, who was sitting in his own parked vehicle when the accident occurred.

"There were about 30 kids there and it was lucky that he was the only one standing in that spot."

McRaney said he believes Seymour had ceased breathing after being struck until Geja Carter, another student at the scene, performed CPR on the accident victim.

Carter said he did not see the accident himself, but saw Seymour thrown into the parked car. He said he could tell the victim had injuries to his head and face but thought he was alive when he started CPR.

Another student, Trace McRaney, said Carter had to continue CPR for "about five minutes or so" until an ambulance arrived.

He added that the car that hit Seymour continued some distance up the road before returning to the accident scene.

All three said several of the young people apparently saw the accident.

Stace McRaney stated that he knew where Seymour had been standing and believes the car had to have left the road to strike the victim.

Bay St. Louis school board election set for Saturday

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Bay St. Louis school board election will be Saturday from 2-5 p.m. at the Waveland Elementary School.

The election is to fill one of the two elective seats on the school board for representation for people living in the school district but outside Bay St. Louis city limits.

Drainage question delays decision

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Waveland Planning and Zoning Board has delayed its decision on subdividing a three-lot parcel of residential property because doing so may disturb a natural drain.

Mick Quinlan, owner of the property in question, appeared before the board Monday with a request that he be allowed to subdivide the property and construct a second residence on one half.

The property is located on Old Pecan Grove Lane and has a natural drain along the back. In Waveland, it is illegal to alter a natural drain without city approval.

Three residents of neighboring property which could be affected if the drain is disturbed also appeared before the board and asked that Quinlan's request not be approved if construction of an access road or driveway to the second residence would significantly alter the drainage.

The board took the matter under advisement until the city engineer can assess whether or not subdividing the lots would cause a drainage problem.

The board meets again March 31.

Classes halted briefly at Waveland Elementary after bomb threat

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Classes at Waveland Elementary School were interrupted for approximately 30 minutes Wednesday after a bomb threat was received at the school.

Principal James Baldree said a call from an adult male warned on the imminent explosion of a bomb in the school.

A fire drill was initiated and the school building was vacated, he added.

Baldree said within 30 minutes of the call law enforcement officers from Waveland Police Department and the Hancock County Sheriff's Department had declared the building safe.

Rear-ender injures one

BY DENA BISNETTE

An accident on US-90 at McLaurin Street in Waveland resulted in injuries to one person and damage to two vehicles.

The accident occurred Monday morning in the right eastbound lane of the highway when a pick-up truck driven by Noah Garcia of Route Two, Bay St. Louis, collided with the rear-end of a car driven by Kevin Gallagher, also of Bay St. Louis.

According to Waveland Police Officer John Wilkerson, Garcia was sent to Hancock General Hospital for treatment after banging his head on the pick-up's windshield when the vehicles collided.

Wilkerson said Gallagher had stopped the car at the red light and Garcia apparently failed to see the light or that the vehicle ahead of him had stopped.

The impact pushed the car more than 100 feet down the highway, the police officer said.

The vehicle Gallagher was driving, a demonstrator from a local dealership, was totaled, and the front end of Garcia's pick-up was damaged.

County Agent's Notes

By Lee Taylor

Beef producers are entering the toughest times for a cow herd. If ryegrass hasn't progressed to the grazing stage some producers can get in trouble with cattle getting weak. Generally a good type range cube fed every other day along with a fair quality hay and grazing frosted grass is sufficient.

Cattle should receive 1 1/2 to 2 pounds of cubes at a feeding. When ryegrass does come in you should only limit graze. A cow with a calf should be allowed to graze 2-3 hours. This is enough time for the cow to obtain the nutrients she needs for herself and the calf.

Parasites, both internal and external can be a problem in the winter. Lice can pull cattle down in a hurry. By using injectable wormers that are systemic we can control most parasites whether internal or external.

Bulls should not be allowed to run with the herd all year. They should be placed in a bull lot away from the herd unless you're on a fall calving season.

Cows should have been pregnancy tested and any open cows should not have been taken through the winter. Calves that are weaning size should be pulled off the cows and creep fed or put on ryegrass.

Calves should be vaccinated for the respiratory diseases and not allowed to become sick. Weight loss or loss from dead animals must be made up somewhere else in the operation.

SELF GOVERNING CONCESSIONS FINALLY TURNED CHOCTAWS UPHILL—BUT LARGELY BY THEIR OWN MOCCASIN STRAPS

(Part 2 of two articles on the Choctaw Indians of Mississippi)

Choctaw Tribal Chief Phillip Martin had been so hard to catch in at his Tribal Office at the Choctaw Reservation near Philadelphia, Mississippi, that I had begun to think he was a phantom.

But finally there he sat, face to face with me, and I began to run down my list of questions.

I soon found out that Mississippi's Choctaws owe much credit for their recent progress in economics, education, cultural and social status, and political fortunes to a change in the philosophy of this nation toward its Indian tribes put in place during the tenure of President Richard Nixon.

I was looking at the man who had been in the forefront of these moves since his election as chief in 1957.

Chief Martin was born in 1926 and began his education on the reservation at the Tucker community school. He went to a boarding school in Cherokee, N. C. for six years, and after receiving a high school diploma he joined the U.S. Air Force.

After 10 years service in Europe and the Far East he returned to Mississippi, married Bonnie Kate Bell, and that same year enrolled at Meridian Junior College and worked on the side at the Naval Air Station, Meridian.

He was elected to the Choctaw Tribal Council in 1957 and served as chairman for 12 years. In 1979 he was elected Tribal Chief.

As we talked he outlined the forward steps made when the government changed its stance. The key thing was the turn-about in U.S. government policy that gave to American Indians "self determination," or local governing privileges which resulted from an American Indian Conference in Chicago in 1960.

On that occasion, Chief Martin said, Indian tribal leaders from across the country expressed a determination to resist further government policies aimed at breaking up tribal groups.

Instead, they maintained, Indians had a right to maintain an independent, social, cultural and political existence within the American system.

President Nixon's endorsement of the concept around 1970 sped along the granting of dual citizenship to Indians all across the land and, more importantly for the Choctaws, established an effective local tribal governing body which has put multiplied shoulders to the wheel to sharply turn around the fate and hopes of Choctaws.

Nearly a quarter of a century later Mississippi's Choctaws are making rapid forward strides. After the Choctaw Agency was established in 1918 at Philadelphia, the group by 1921 had begun the purchase of defaulted lands to add to that already established by the government.

By a 1939 Act of Congress the 17,000 acre Choctaw Reservation was set aside in central Mississippi, primarily in seven communities in Neshoba, Leake, and Newton counties.

Under the Indian Reorganization Act of 1934 the re-establishment of tribal government had been made possible. A constitution had been approved and in 1945 the first Tribal Council was elected. Yet as late as 1959 this council was accorded little importance by the U.S. government. The Nixon years changed that.

In 1963 the Council used Choctaw tribal timber sales money to hire a business manager and a tribal executive branch was developed. Educated Choctaws next were put in positions of authority in tribal af-airs. Then the Civil Rights Act of 1964 brought on an equal opportunity impact on job opportunities. The next year the Choctaw Housing Authority was established to take advantage of federal housing programs.

In 1963 Pearl River Central High School was created and in 1975 a 43-bed hospital was opened jointly by the tribe and the U.S. Public Health Service.

A community center has been built in each of the seven Choctaw communities. Today there are 900 housing units on the reservation as a result of a tribal enterprise, Chata Development Co., which has built over 400 homes.

Just west of Philadelphia on the reservation an 80 acre industrial park has been built which in 1979-81 created over 500 jobs.

Meanwhile tribal government programs have provided job training, adult education, pre-school and early-school education, and numerous services.

During the 1970's Chief Martin was a force in establishing the Chata Development Co., and as president of National Indian Management Service he put together a financial package through which Parkard Electric Division of General Motors came to the reservation for business. He also helped establish Choctaw Greetings Enterprises.

From his Mississippi reservation headquarters today Chief Martin ventures far and wide beating the drums for enterprise, Indian style.

He was a leader in the establishment of the United Southeastern Tribes to promote inter-tribal cooperation, and since 1981 he has served as president of the National Tribal Chairman's Association.

He makes frequent trips to Washington as an advocate for his tribe in direct talks with government leaders or through testimony before Congress.

When interviewed by this writer recently the chief's office was akin to a doctor's clinic with him scurrying here and there to greet Choctaws or business visitors.

Under their dual citizenship Choctaws today may live on their reservation if they choose, or move from it the same as any other U.S. citizen. But most choose to remain.

One reason for this is the fact that since 1979 over 1,000 jobs have been created on the reservation by the Tribal Council and their economically warring chieftain, now in his third elected term of office.

That's one new job for every five persons including children. Chief Martin feels that despite the giant economic steps made by his tribe, real self-sufficiency still is a long way off.

And the Choctaws do not want to abandon their culture and traditions that have surrounded them for thousands of years. In fact, the Choctaw language still is spoken in 90 percent of the homes on the reservation, and handicrafts still are painstakingly created by Choctaws of all ages.

Basketry is a specialized skill of the Choctaws, utilizing locally gathered swamp canes and weaving the baskets with such skill that today they are in heavy demand. Those and other crafts are sold primarily during the Choctaw Indian Fair held on the reservation each summer.

Interest in the Choctaws seems to be continually climbing although the reservation is "off the beaten path," in the words of Chief Martin.

Still the pilgrimages are occurring as Mississippians and Americans look interestingly at the Choctaw Princesses being crowned annually in their native costumes and watch the highly competitive stickball games or execution of centuries old tribal dances.

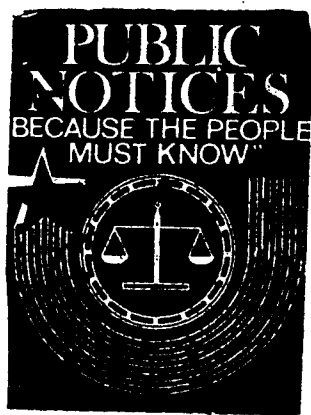

And in every area of life the Choctaws again are on the move — this time ahead and at their own discretion!

Exercise caution in waistline reduction. If you desire an extensive diet be sure to check with your physician before carrying out your plans.

Calories do count in the "weighing game." They are stored in fat tissue when they are in excess of your body's energy needs.

By reducing the calorie intake of 500 calories below the normal daily intake over a period of seven days, you can subtract 3,500 calories a week. This number of calories is equivalent to the loss of one pound of body fat. When 35,000 calories are deleted from the food intake there is an anticipated ten pound loss of body weight.

Budget your "calorie expense account." Check your daily meals to see that you have the basic food groups included.

If you "nibble" between meals, be cautious in choosing foods for snack time. Crisp raw vegetables, like celery, radishes and carrots are wise choices because they contain few calories. Strips of lean meat are good too. But remember to keep a record of "extras," and eat a good breakfast to avoid fatigue at work and temptation to overeat at noon.

Emphasize foods that are low in calories but high in important nutrients. Food may be naturally low in calories or may be processed in some way to reduce its caloric value.

The dietary food departments in our supermarkets have grown in variety and volume. The items in these departments are usually low-calorie, low-sodium, sugar-restricted or allergy foods. It is important to read the labels to know the food values as well as caloric value.

You'll want to consider cost, calories and quality when you plan meals and shop for food. Since special dietary foods generally are produced and packed in smaller quantities which increase production and handling costs, they are higher in retail prices. You should figure out whether the calories saved in low-calorie dietary food are worth the extra cents spent. Low-calorie foods, not in the dietary food department, may be good buys.

Pay more attention to the lean meats, vegetables and fruits lower in calorie content. You'll find if you shop carefully, you can get good buys on many of these.

It is strongly pointed out, that a hunger strike is not recommended to achieve weight reduction. By eating smaller portions of all foods, cutting down on fried foods, eliminating whipped cream and rich desserts, and reducing the amount of oil dressings, the number of calories will diminish.

A key to the calorie dilemma is fats, oils and cream have more calories than do carbohydrates and proteins of the same size. When selecting foods, choose lean meats, eggs, fish and poultry. Vegetables and fruits have the lowest amount of fat content per food group. If you must have desserts, try the fruit type.

This is a good month to include fruit desserts since orange juice, oranges and all citrus fruits are in plentiful supply now. By planning your meals around the foods in good supply you not only save some cents, but calories as well.

If you really want to control weight, choose a sensible, well-balanced diet and stay with it. Fad diets and gimmicks may let you lose weight but when you return to your old eating habits the weight returns.

LOOKING FOR HELP—Representatives of Gulf Regional Planning Commission and the Hancock and Harrison County Board of Supervisors discuss funding for reconstruction of Beach Road with Congressman Trent Lott during a recent trip to Washington. From left are Harrison County Supervisor Eddie Moffett, Hancock County Supervisor Bert Courge, Gulf Regional Planning Commission Director James Head, Lott, Hancock County Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner, Gulf Regional Planning Commission Representative Buddy Klein and Harrison County Supervisor Bobby Eleuterius. Also attending was Gulf Regional Planning Commission President Douglas Necaise. Authorization for $250,000 in emergency repair funding was obtained by the US Corps of Engineers late last week and the Hancock County supervisors are expected to discuss whether matching funds are available at today's meeting.

of supervisors and understood that they are able to commit the matching funds for the long-term project.

The project designed by that study could cost as much as $10 million to $12 million to complete.

Head added that he had learned of the availability of the $250,000 emergency funding on Friday and had not yet asked the board members about matching those funds.

However, he expects to be able to present a proposal on the matter to the supervisors on Thursday.

Efforts to obtain funding for the long-term project have been underway for several years, but Head, commission members, Harrison County supervisors and Hancock County Supervisors Roger Dale Ladner and Bert Courge recently visited Washington, D.C., to discuss the long-term project as well as the problems caused by the 1985 hurricane season.

Hurricane Juan caused some of the supporting soil to erode out from under Beach Road, causing numerous problems with sinkholes and voids. The road is presently closed except to light traffic, despite some patching provided by the county and the City of Waveland.

Courge said he hopes that seawall tax funds can be used to provide matching money, possibly for both the emergency repairs and the long-term study.

The county receives about $500,000 per year in seawall taxes, originally set aside for seawall maintenance, but those funds were diverted a number of years ago to pay off bonds for the county port and harbor.

Courge said he feels that the board is interested in paying off the remaining bond indebtedness early, but expects some discussion on whether or not to use all of the seawall tax money for maintenance of the beach and beach road.

He feels repairing the beachfront is crucial and could generate more funds for the county.

"A lot of our county and city monies come from the tourist trade and the seafood industry that the beach and Beach Road have generated," Courge said.

"If we don't keep up the seawall and beach we will lose a lot of other revenues, like the school taxes that the cities get."

"You have to spend money to make money. We can't neglect the beach because its a money making proposition for this county and its cities."

He added that using the seawall tax to maintain the beach could help alleviate the financial strain that the county and individual beats have been experiencing while repairing hurricane damage.

Courge said one of the first things he would like to see done with the emergency funding if it can be obtained would be to have Beach Road sound to locate voids and apply pressure grouting to fill the worst ones.

Ladner said the county presently has its attorneys looking into the possibility of repaying the port and harbor bonds in order to divert the seawall funds back to their original purpose.

He said the county apparently has about $200,000 more than the amount required for the bonds.

Ladner said he feels it is too early to decide whether or not all of the seawall tax money should be used for beach maintenance. However, he is in favor of repairing the road and the beach itself where the sand is needed for shore protection.

He said he feels all the board members are interested in paying off the bonds, but because the county is faced with the loss of federal revenue sharing funds and other cuts, there could be a number of needs for the seawall tax in addition to beach maintenance.

Supervisors Sam Perniciaro and A.A. Kellar both said that anticipated funding cuts make them less in favor of spending money on the two-year study than when it was first discussed. Both, however, said the emergency funding may be something the county can use.

"If there is any way possible I would like to see the beach repaired, but we can't jeopardize the whole county's finances," Perniciaro said. "We need to take a long, close look at this."

He said he would be particularly interested in obtaining the emergency funding if the county could provide some of the repair work rather than contracting for the entire project.

If the county provides some of the work, the $250,000 could be stretched to include more of the seawall.

Kellar said he has become hesitant about putting up the $77,000 and $85,000 for the two parts of the long-term study because, even after the study is completed, the county will not be guaranteed any funding for a reconstruction project.

"I know something has got to be done down there, but I can't see taking chances with money for a study that can't guarantee us anything," he explained.

"The government could make money available today and take it away tomorrow."

He said he is in favor of trying to obtain the $250,000 in emergency funds if matching funds can be provided and added that the county is already able to provide sufficient rights-of-way for any repair work.

Hancock United Way receives grant funds

A federal agency has approved a $33,457 grant for Hancock County United Way.

According to Susan Irby, a spokesperson for Congressman Trent Lott, the funding is being provided by Action, an agency designed to mobilize Americans for voluntary service in programs supporting self-help efforts by low income in-

Wagner to present plan for school roof repairs

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County School Board is expected to act on a proposal for permanent repairs to the roof of Hancock North Central School on Monday.

School board members had expected to be able to hear the proposal this week but Fred Wagner, the architect working on the project, was unable to attend their meeting.

Wagner plans to propose that the permanent repairs, which call for replacement of the roof of the entire elementary and junior high sections of the school, consist of a built-up composition roof.

The built-up composition roof is a flat type of roof used on numerous public buildings in the county, including the City-County Library on US-90.

That type of roof is constructed of layers of asphalt and asphalt felt and is considered particularly resistant to leaking because it is sloped and has drains in the center to keep water from building up on top during rains.

The present roof is also a flat roof but of a type considered more suitable for dry weather. It was designed to be level rather than sloped, but the building has settled in the center, causing water to drain inward.

"I feel using this type of roof is the best chance of getting a quality roof using the oldest, most established methods," Wagner said.

At this week's board meeting, Board Member Monvel Cuevas said he hopes the project can be bid in time for all of the work to be done during summer vacation.

Wagner said he believes that the project can be completed during the summer, but the roof can be constructed in sections to avoid disrupting students and classes if work continues into the following school term.

In other business, the board voted to purchase insurance for the district's non-certified personnel.

The board approved a limited coverage plan from Kemper Insurance, which covers the non-certified employees for medical expenses for accidents on the job or en route to or from jobs.

In addition, the board:

—Approved a request to advertise for bids on a six-classroom addition for Gulfview Elementary School in Lakeshore;

—Approved a proposal to contract with Moore and Powell for two years' audits;

—Agreed to advertise for bids for the sale of 16 Section timber damaged during the hurricane season;

—Approved cancellation of two 18 Section land residential leases, one for non-payment and one at the request of the leaseholder;

—Employed one substitute teacher and a clerk for the superintendent's office; and —Approved several request from staff members for permission to attend conferences and workshops outside Hancock County.

The board meets again Monday at 6 p.m.

be sent to Edward E. Leonard at Pearl River Central High School.

"We will award trophies to the Skill test opportunity awaits at 'The Great Day of Soccer'

Area youngsters will be able to test their soccer talents at "The Great Day of Soccer" Saturday.

In it's fourth year, the soccer competition is sponsored by the Coast Coca-Cola Bottling Company

of Gulfport and the South Mississippi

Soccer Club and will be held at Milner Stadium in Gulfport.

"The Great Day of Soccer" is designed to be an all-around test of a youngster's soccer skills, and still be fun," said Pete Morgenthaler of the South Mississippi Soccer Club.

"The Great Day of Soccer" competition consists of five basic tests:

the throw in for distance, long distance kicking, juggling, dribbling and goal kicking.

The skills test should be a challenge for youngsters with soccer experience, but be easy enough for beginners.

More than 2,000 youngsters from the Gulf Coast and Louisiana are expected to compete in this soccer skills contest. "The Great Day of Soccer" program begins at 9 a.m.

and concludes at 5 p.m.

Hattiesburg baseball camp schedules announced

Youth in grades 7 through 12 will get an opportunity to learn the fundamentals of baseball at a University of Southern Mississippi - sponsored camp June 16-20, to be followed by a grade 3-6 camp June 30 through July 2.

The third annual Golden Eagle Baseball Camp will emphasize the learning atmosphere as well as a fun time for participants, said camp director Hill Denson, USM's head baseball coach.

Special features offered by the camp will include individual and team instruction, an outstanding coaching staff, menus planned by college dietitians, complete adult supervision and a swimming pool with a lifeguard on duty.

The instructional coaching staff for the camp will include Denson, Assistant Coach Corky Palmer, and Assistant Coach Charlie Gray. Campers will register from 9 a.m. until 11 a.m. Monday, June 16, at the Reed Green Coliseum. Cost of the five-day camp is $150 per person and the fee includes meals, housing, student accident insurance and recreational facilities.

Day campers may attend the 7-12 grade sessions for a fee of $110. This fee includes lunches, student accident insurance and recreational facilities.

Items campers need to provide include bed linens and pillows, personal towels and washcloths, toilet articles, baseball gloves, practice clothes and shoes, one bat (catcher's), clothes for casual wear and swim trunks.

A refundable $5 key deposit will be collected by university housing staff upon check-in at the dorm desk. The deposit is non-refundable if the key is not returned to housing upon check-out.

For more information about the camp, write the Division of Lifelong Learning at Southern Station, Box 5056, Hattiesburg, Miss., 39406-5056, or call (601) 266-4201.

Public use limit set for Fort Pickens Campground

A restriction on the number of vehicles permitted to park at each campsite in the Fort Pickens Campground at Gulf Islands National Seashore has been set at two vehicles (self propelled or towed) per site, Superintendent Jerry A. Eubanks reported.

Any car, truck, motor home, pickup camper, travel trailer, pop-up trailer, or boat trailer will be considered a vehicle.

"Heavy use of the campground and limited paved parking at each campsite has prompted this new restriction which becomes effective March 1," stated Eubanks.

At times there are as many as two cars and one recreational vehicle at a campsite. With this many vehicles, one or both cars must park off the designated parking pad.

Many times, the extra vehicle obstructs the flow of traffic. In addition there is the environmental impact of excess vehicles often being parked on grass areas.

Beach areas are fragile environments that take years to encourage grass growth. Constant vehicle traffic kills and prevents growth of vegetation.

"A limit on the number of vehicles permitted to park at each campsite had to be set to preserve the area before too much damage occurs," said Eubanks.

Campers bringing extra cars, boats and trailers and having someone visit them at their campsite must park those extra vehicles at the following designated areas within the campgrounds at Fort Pickens, Gulf Islands National Seashore: Loop A - at the dumpster, Loop C and E - at the large shell area between dumping station and the checkout box, and Loop B and D - at the dumpster.

"We look forward to camper cooperation in adhering to this new regulation," stated Eubanks.

"Nature never breaks her own laws."

READY FOR PILGRIMS—This quaint, one-room framed structure at 106 S. Second St. will be included on the Bay-Waveland Garden Club's annual Bay St. Louis Tour of Homes Thursday, March 27. The tour, conducted in conjunction with the Mississippi Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs 1986 Spring Pilgrimage, is free and open to the public. The shop was built around the turn of the century for August Shiro, an Italian immigrant who operated his Boston Shoe Store at the location while maintaining his residence on Main Street. The structure subsequently housed a shoe repair business for many years. Restoration to its present condition was completed by the current owner, Harold Carver, in 1982, and the building is leased to Sandra Smith who operates an antique store at the location. THE COURTYARD at 104 S. Second St. is among the 12 stops on the Bay St. Louis Tour to be conducted Thursday, March 27 by Bay-Waveland Garden Club in conjunction with the Mississippi Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs 1986 Spring Pilgrimage. The courtyard, which will be open from noon to 4 p.m. for the free public tour, was designed by its present owner Harold Carver and features a black fig tree brought from Italy by the original owner of a neighboring structure around the turn of the century. The wrought iron fence was purchased from the Markham Hotel in Gulfport. (Bay-Waveland Garden Club photo)

Help Your Heart

American Heart Association

Exercise can lower blood pressure

Aerobic exercise can control high blood pressure in some individuals, but to keep blood pressure at a normal level, exercise must become a way of life. "In certain individuals, aerobic exercise may be a viable alternative to medication," says behavioral psychologist John E. Martin, Ph. D., "especially if the high blood pressure is detected early."

However, Martin warns, there is a problem when people whose high blood pressure is lowered by exercise believe they are cured and quit exercising. "They must realize that if they quit exercising, they need to take medication to maintain a normal blood pressure. And for some, it will take a small dose of medication in addition to exercise."

Aerobic exercise increases breathing and the blood flow to working muscles. Done for an extended amount of time it can strengthen the heart, lungs and blood vessels. According to the American Heart Association, to be effective, aerobic exercise must be done for 15-30 minutes at least three times a week. The exercise must raise the heart rate to at least 65 percent of its maximum capacity. Exercising at too high an intensity can cause injuries or a burnout of motivation, Martin points out.

Some common aerobic exercises are cycling, brisk walking, lap swimming, jogging, and aerobic dance.

Martin has conducted research at the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Jackson, Mississippi on the effects of exercise on blood pressure. "When effective, behavioral methods of controlling high blood pressure (such as aerobic exercise) appear to have distinct advantages over medication alone," says Martin. High blood pressure medication can cause negative side effects, such as weakness or impotence. Behavioral methods can create positive side effects by making the patient feel better physically, he explains.

But, after a patient feels better, there can be a problem of maintaining motivation to continue the aerobic exercise program. "Lack of symptoms encourages lack of compliance," Martin comments.

It is important to provide encouragement so a patient will continue the exercise program. "It is easier to just take a pill than to exercise, so we need to establish an 'effective comfort zone'."

Martin explains that an effective comfort zone is a level of exercise that patients can enjoy without huffing, puffing and turning red. Scientists who work with Martin encourage other family members to exercise with the patients to make it as enjoyable an experience as possible.

All programs to control blood pressure through exercise must be done with medical supervision, Martin warns. Candidates in his program are screened to find any previous heart, kidney or vascular problems.

SAFE FOOD IN A HURRY

Foodborne illness can lead to time away from the job for the employed homemaker and cause family misery. Work to prevent food poisoning. When you must care for food in a hurry, keep the food safe by following these simple rules: Keep food hot. Keep food cold. Keep food clean. Keep Food Hot

Most germs that cause food poisoning are killed when you boil, broil or roast foods. But when food stays warm (less than 140 degrees F) for two hours or longer, germs can produce poisons that are not destroyed by heating. Once food is cooked, keep it hot until served and refrigerate leftovers at once. Leaving food at room temperature for more than two hours (including preparation times) may allow food poisoning germs to multiply. These germs seldom change the taste, color or look of food.

Some foods require special precautions. For example, know what kind of ham you have bought. Some need to be cooked. Others are cooked fully and can be eaten as they come from the package. Check the label. If you have any doubts, cook it.

Cook poultry products thoroughly. If you prepare turkey, chicken or duck ahead for cooking, store in the refrigerator. Store giblets and stuffing separately. Do not stuff the bird a day or two ahead of the cooking time. Stuff it just before roasting. Refrigerate leftover, deboned poultry and stuffing as soon as possible in separate dishes. This hastens the cooling time.

Keep Food Cold

Germs cannot multiply fast if the storage temperature is 40 degrees F or below. Store meat, poultry, eggs, milk and cheese in the refrigerator.

At the supermarket, always pick up meat, poultry and dairy products last. Take them home and put them in the refrigerator or freezer quickly. If these products get warm, the possibility of food poisoning and spoilage increases.

When you bring meat home from the grocery store, remove the butcher wrappings and cover it loosely with wax paper. Leave cured and smoked meats such as bacon in the original wrap until opened. Then rewrap tightly in foil or plastic.

The refrigerator life of meat varies from one to seven days. The most perishable meats are ground beef, veal, lamb, ground pork and variety meats. They will keep only one to two days in the refrigerator.

Fresh beef, veal, pork, lamb and leftover cooked meat will keep two to four days in the refrigerator. Smoked sausage, bacon, a smoked whole ham and corned beef will keep seven days. Protect your investment in meat. Use it before it loses its quality.

When you are in a hurry, the best way to thaw meat and poultry is to leave it in the refrigerator overnight or during the day while you are at work.

Alternate methods include thawing it outside the refrigerator in a sealed plastic bag under cold running water, in a closed double paper bag without using water, or in the microwave oven. Allow it to get just warm enough to thaw and still cool enough to slow down germ growth, particularly on the meat surface.

A good time-saver is to cook meats while still frozen.

Store luncheon meat and wieners in the refrigerator. Do not treat them as though they cannot have food poisoning germs - they can. Even stored in the refrigerator, hot dogs and lunch meats should be used within a week.

Open and close packages as few times as possible. Handle cold meats (or any meats) with a fork or tongs, not your fingers. Fingers spread germs.

If you take your lunch to work, try preparing, packaging and freezing sandwiches ahead. Then making your lunch will be a quick process and a safe one, too. By lunch your sandwich will be thawed, yet cold enough to prevent bacteria from growing.

Keep Food Clean

Do not buy or use food from containers with these faults: leaking, bulging or damaged cans; cracked jars or jars with loose or bulging lids. Do not taste or use food with a foul odor or any food from a can which spurts liquid when you open it.

These foods could contain the rare and often fatal botulism poison. Botulism is found more often in home-canned foods than in commercial products, but be careful either way.

VFW Auxiliary district president calls special convention meeting

Kenneth Boggs, District I commander, is also expected to attend. District I Ladies Auxiliary sponsored a reception for National President Lucile Suschina at Diamondhead on her visit to Mississippi.

Lucille Boudreaux will make her official visit, which will be her homecoming, to Theodore S. Price Auxiliary 3253 on Wednesday, March 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the Post Home on Third Street.

Jeanne Garcia, auxiliary president, will welcome Boudreaux.

The Center and RSVP are sponsoring a St. Joseph Altar Wednesday, March 19, at 10 a.m. All of you who would like to participate in this tradition can bring your food donation to the altar at 10 a.m. and stay for mass.

We know many of you have had altars for years and would like to keep up this means of thanksgiving, but find it too difficult alone. We hope that by having a community altar we can maintain this feast day.

WORLD DAY OF PRAYER

Our seniors will sing one special hymn at the World Day of Prayer celebration at the Main Street United Methodist Church Friday, March 7, at 10 a.m.

This is an inter-denominational service and all are invited. There will be other special music and a fine program.

The lure of Cerro Autana can be explained by the fact that the top of the sandstone pinnacle, some 4,000 feet high, has been isolated by sheer cliffs for thousands of years. The exotic plant life is due, in part, to the extreme climate: cool nights, hot, dry days, flash flood and periods of drought. The dominant plants survive by catching insects and dew drops.

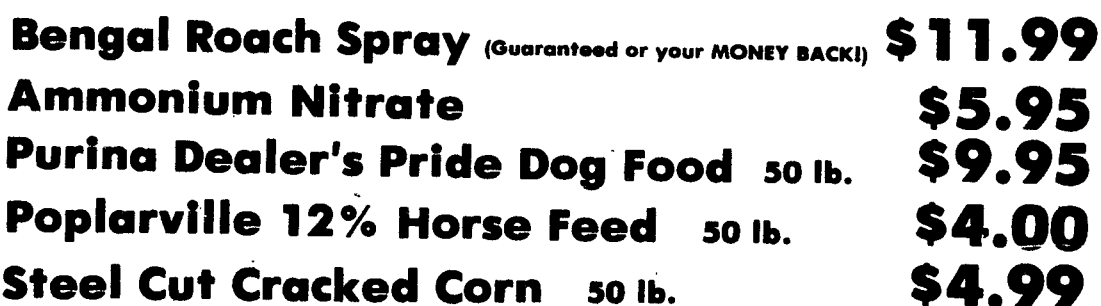

Turn the eggplant slices over and spoon the seasoned tomato mixture top. Sprinkle liberally with the cheese, and bake in a preheated 350 degree oven for 20 to 30 minutes, or until tender. (Four to six servings.) (Copyright, 1986, Katharine D.M. Maire)

GREAT PERFORMANCES

The "Great Performances" Broadway revival of "You Can't Take It With You" starring Jason Robards encores at 9 p.m., Friday, February 28, on Mississippi ETV.

Also starring are Colleen Dewhurst, Elizabeth Wilson and George Ross as well as most of the members of the 1983 Broadway cast. George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart won a Pulitzer Prize in 1937 for "You Can't Take It With You," a comedy about the nutty Sycamore family. This latest version of the popular favorite was videotaped live at New York's Royale Theatre. Ellis Rabb, who is one of the directors of the television adaptation, served as original stage director.

The play is an affectionate valentine to old-fashioned American independence. If strange at first to the outside world, the good-hearted Sycamore family members are united by a mutual love and respect for each other with which audiences can identify. Says Robards: "It's a play you can come away from and say, 'that's how my family was.'"

CLANCEY MCMAHON

McMahon, Cotie win Legion oratoricals

Clancey McMahon is first-place winner in the Bay St. Louis Post 139 Oratorical Contest; and Jennifer Cotie is first-place winner representing Waveland Post 77.

Amy Fayard and John Dowden, also Bay High students, took second and third places, respectively, in the local Waveland Post 77 contest.

The purpose of the contest is to develop a deeper knowledge and appreciation of the Constitution of the United States on the part of high school students.

Other objectives of the contest include the development of leadership, the ability to think and speak clearly and intelligently, and the preparation for acceptance of the duties and responsibilities, as well as the rights and privileges of American citizenship.

According to the rules of the contest, the oration prepared by each contestant must be on some phase of the Constitution of the United States which will give emphasis to the attendant duties and obligations of a citizen to our government.

The coach of Bay High's oratorical contestants is Mrs. Carrie Smith, English department.

Junior college trustees slashing payrolls due to legislative budget cuts

Thirty-six positions will be eliminated next year at Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College in a budget-trimming move that also includes terminating six programs with low enrollments.

MGCJC President Barry L. Mellinger told the school's Board of Trustees last week the reductions are among those necessary to balance a budget that will be nearly $1 million smaller in 1987.

Mellinger said the college already has slashed $1.2 million from the 1986 budget in the wake of cuts in state funding and a decline in enrollment.

"We had anticipated an additional loss of $497,000 in state funds next year. But now the Legislature is planning to add $1,040,000 to it and possibly will further reduce vocational appropriations," Mellinger said.

He said, "Cuts of this magnitude undermine and jeopardize the whole education process. It's time the Legislature focused its attention on this problem and does everything possible to solve it, even if it means raising taxes."

If the Legislature does further reduce funding by $1 million, Mellinger said the college will be forced to consider increasing tuition and cutting salaries across-the-board.

Personnel whose contracts will not be renewed in July include 13 vocational-technical and nine academic instructors college-wide. Five-and-a-half administrative and nine staff positions also are being eliminated.

Among the administrative posts to go is that of vice president for instruction, a position formerly held by Mellinger, who said he cannot in good faith justify filling it.

About half of the people affected have been transferred to other jobs in the college system or have found employment elsewhere, Mellinger said.

He said additional money will be saved by shortening the contracts of vocational instructors from 12 months to 10, unless they teach in the summer. Contracts for academic and technical faculty will be trimm-

Poetry society offering prizes

The Mississippi Poetry Society is offering over $400 in prizes at its Spring Festival in Aberdeen May 17 and 18.

Most of the categories of poems are open to all interested persons.

The deadline for submitting poems is April 5.

The contest chairmen are Jim and Doris Bateman, 215 Mississippi St., Hazlehurst, MS 39083.

Anyone interested in entering poems may obtain information from them. Please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

ed from 10 months to nine, unless they also teach beyond the spring semester.

Among the other areas where cuts will be made are athletics, $23,000; yearbooks, about $10,000; maintenance contracts, $30,000 and supplies, $25,000.

The college earlier this year reduced supply budgets, placed a freeze on hiring and "cut travel to the bone," Mellinger said.

"Obviously, all these cuts will have an effect on the education process. We tried to make the reductions in areas where we wouldn't undermine and destroy the integrity of our programs. But the overall quality is going to suffer," Mellinger said.

Trustee Wilbur Ward of Lucedale agreed.

"It will take years to recover from the damage being done to education in the state this year," he said. "One of the best things we could do for any young person planning to go into the field of education would be to advise him or her to go some place else."

And board member C.G. Odum of Wiggins was even more vocal.

"The Legislature and the governing bodies are raping education — the (Mississippi) Forestry Commission, everybody — to keep from raising taxes."

In March the trustees will consider the second revision of the college's 1986 budget — "if there's anything left in it to consider," one board member muttered.

LIBRARY DISPLAY—A large collection of old bottles is currently on display until the end of February at the Hancock County-Bay St. Louis Library on US-90. Sharon and Rodney Hammit of Pass Christian, owners of the collection, show a Hutchinson-type bottle circa 1880. This particular bottle is embossed "Barqs Root Beer Bottling Co, Gulfport."

SECOND PLACE—Deliberating during the play-off round of the American Enterprise Center's Free Enterprise Games is Bay Senior High's team. Bay Senior finished in the runner-up spot after competing with nearly 30 other teams from South Mississippi. Members of Bay Senior's team include Kelly Ramsey, Carol Ladner, Linda Carver, Cheryl Jones, Tracy Carver. Sponsors are Mrs. Peggy Webb of Bay Senior and CPA Charles Benvenutti of Bay St. Louis.

4-H News

ABOUT 4-H Volunteers By Daney Jackson Hancock County 4-H Youth Agent

Volunteers are the backbone for any 4-H program, and without them there would be no 4-H program.

The term "4-H Volunteers" includes all adults and youth who donate their time to help carry out the 4-H program. Except for 4-H program assistants in a few counties and a secretary, volunteers are the only staff members a 4-H agent has.

Volunteers carry out a wide variety of tasks on 4-H.

a. 4-H Club Advisors - The best known role in 4-H is the 4-H Club Advisor. This is the person responsible for organizing the 4-H Club and for generally directing its meetings and other activities.

b. Assistant 4-H Club Advisors - They help the advisor with the club.

c. Project Leaders - A 4-H Club may have one or more project leaders to help members enrolled in that particular project.

d. Activity Leaders - Activity Leaders are responsible for coordinating the participation of the club in one or more activities.

e. County Project Leaders - A county project leader would be responsible for helping club project leaders in that particular project and helping 4-H members in the county prepare for a district or state activity relating to that project.

f. County Activity Leader - The county activity leader is responsible for coordinating a major 4-H activity at the county level. This could be county contests, exhibit days, a major special interest group, a school enrichment program or other activities.

g. Advisory Group Members - These volunteers help assess needs of the 4-H program, help implement the program, and help evaluate it.

h. Other roles -
1) fund raiser
2) contest judge
3) bus driver
4) chaperones
5) resource people - Teachers of subject matter for 4-H club members, workshops, special interest groups, and school enrichment programs.

Volunteers provide essential service to 4-H in helping carry out various tasks that permit 4-H to reach more boys and girls with the program. They also have a role in helping a county in assessing the needs of youth and in evaluating the program and its activities.

They also provide a linkage between 4-H and the local community. Involvement of volunteers in the program help the people to understand that 4-H is the people's program and not one handed down from the university.

Anyone interested in learning more about 4-H, or wishing to get involved either as an adult volunteer or as a member should contact the Hancock County Extension 4-H Youth Agent at 467-5456.

TIGHT NERVES

This materialistic age is often blamed for all our frustrated and nervous tension. When the person becomes tense and overwhelmed with anxiety, he is urged to take tranquilizers or rest from work. But it is a hard and poor remedy to follow when you are tied up inside. Authorities in our field have found that nervousness creeps up on a person from the inside, and they usually blame outside conditions for causing them to be tense and even depressed. Studies indicate that there is a physical reason for nervousness, that it can and often does result from an interrupted nerve supply. This irritates the nervous system and slows down the life currents to the body. A Chiropractic examination can detect an interruption in the nerve supply and proper care will aid in restoring normal nerve function, your peace of mind, and vigorous health again.

State art group starts fund-raiser

The Mississippi Art Education Association (MAEA) has launched a fund-raising drive to raise money for the improvement of art education in Mississippi's public schools.

The organization hopes to raise at least $1,300 to defray expenses for state officers, scholarships and for future programs and projects.

Several pieces of art have been donated by Mississippi artists to assist in the fund-raising effort, including works by William Baggett, nationally known painter and chairman of the Art Department at the University of Southern Mississippi; and Jackson-based Pat Marbury, noted ceramic artist and member of the Mississippi Craftsmen's Guild.

For more information about the MAEA fund-raiser, contact your local MAEA member, or Neil Elam, fund-raising co-chairman, 209 Winsor Road, Starkville, Miss. 39759, telephone 323-5659.

March 1, 1986, is the deadline for the 1985-86 Mensa scholarship contest, with awards of $1,000, $500, $200, and $200 to be made in June in each of nine regions in the U.S.

The announcement came from the Mississippi area chapter of Mensa, the International "High IQ Club," and the Mensa Education & Research Foundation.

Mississippians will compete with residents of neighboring states comprising one of American Mensa's nine regions. Awards are based on essays of about 500 words which describe the applicants' career, vocational, academic or goal direction.

For further information about the Mensa scholarship competition and to obtain application forms, contact Miriam Barry, 1217 Linden Place, Jackson, MS 39202. A stamped, self-addressed envelope must accompany requests for applications.

Plans and Specifications are on file in the offices of the Hancock County Chancery Clerk and Lawrence L. Seal, County Engineer, 113 Telly Road, Piquette, Mississippi 39369. Plans and proposals may be secured upon payment of $20.00, which is not refundable.
Certified check or bid bond for five percent (5%) of all total bid payable to Hancock County must accompany each proposal.
The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids. Certified check or bid bond will be returned immediately to unsuccessful bidders. Bidders are hereby notified that any proposal accompanied by letters qualifying in any manner the condition under which the proposal is tendered will be considered an irregular bid and such proposals will not be considered in making the award.
A performance bond, or equal, in the full amount of the contract will be required of the successful bidder. In lieu of a performance bond the successful bidder may post with the Board of Supervisors, the full amount of the contract, said cash or its equivalent to be held until the successful completion of the project. The contractor will be required to pay wages as applicable with and most other conditions of the Davis-Bacon Act, and to meet conditions of employment under applicable laws. Attention is called to the fact that contracts exceeding $25,000 require contractors to be licensed under applicable laws of the State of Mississippi and have a certificate of responsibility.
Published by order of the Board of Supervisors dated this 3rd day of February, 1986.

Blevins is tops in DECA fund-raiser

The Bay High DECA Chapter held its third annual Skate-A-Thon for Muscular Dystrophy Association Jan. 28 at the Twin Pines Roller Rink in Waveland.

A total of $621 was raised for MDA.

Michael Blevins, a seventh grade student at Bay Junior High School, collected the largest amount, $80.

Blevins also raised the highest total last year at the annual skate-athon.

He was recognized by Lisa Doucette, program coordinator for the Muscular Dystrophy Association, and was also awarded the grand prize from Domino's Pizza.

He will receive a pizza party for himself and ten of his friends from Domino's Pizza.

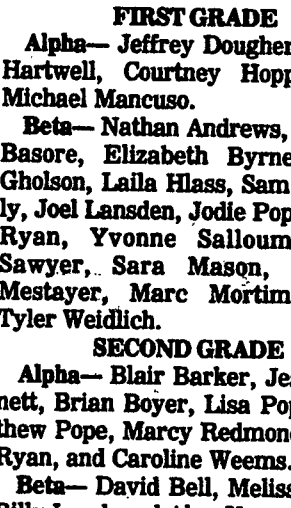

For the third year Domino's Pizza, 7-Up Bottling Company, and Twin Pines Roller Rink has co-sponsored the Skate-A-Thon with the DECA Chapter at Bay High School.

Desiree Brignac, chairperson of the MDA Skate-A-Thon, is in the process of compiling a manual for state competition to be held by DECA in Jackson in March.

IS DRINKING AND DRIVING WORTH LOSING A FRIEND. . . . PERMANENTLY?

The moment called for celebration. Steve and Tommy's college room assignments had been confirmed, promising the continuation of a friendship that had started in the first grade. Sharing a six-pack, they sped along in Tommy's car discussing high school graduation and plans for their future. But the wreck was something neither had figured on. Now Tommy needs a new roommate.

Approximately 46 teenagers will be killed this year in Mississippi by drinking and driving or riding with someone who does. It's your choice.
